WHAT IS VALUE?

- The value date briefly indicates the day on which the order will be executed.
- Investment funds have value dates such as T+0, T+1, T+2.
- T= Today
- The T+0 value date indicates that when you place a buy or sell order for the fund, the transaction will be executed within the day.
- The price value date and the transaction execution value date may refer to different dates.

For example, in a KPU Stock Fund purchase order (T+1);

For orders placed by 13:30 on T+0 (the day the order is placed), the price and transaction execution date is T+1. In other words, the fund purchase order transaction is executed on the same day (T+1) at the T+1 price.

For KPU Equity Fund sell orders;

For orders placed by 13:30 on T+0 (the day the order is placed), the price date is T+1 and the transaction settlement date is T+2. In other words, the fund sell order transaction is executed on T+2 at the T+1 price.
